The

1953

A RCHITECTURE . . . basically utilitarian . . . yet in many ways symbolic . . . reflects the past or present for the future . . . records progress in logs, bricks, granite . . . translates into arches, spires, soaring facades . . . the emotions and ideals that underlie an institution . . . infuses these into beholder and inhabitant . . . buildings in their thorough tangibility . . . imply intangibles . . . with their destruction an era passes . . . subtler foundations crumble . . . but the structures may endure . . . in reality or picture . . . visual reminders of traditions cherished . . .

NOT for themselves but for their influence on days to come . . . so at Creighton . . . buildings tell a story . . . a seventy-five year history has been made within their walls . . . since 1878 when the arts college . . . mother of the university . . . first opened its doors to students . . . making a hilltop a summit of learning . . . the university has progressed and expanded . . . to the eye advancement appears in material facilities . . . to the mind its roots are deeper . . . in the thoughts and deeds of men . . . the Creighton dedication for seventy-five years of yesterday . . . and for tomorrow . . .

FOR this university . . . born in their thoughts
 . . . realized through their industry and benevolence . . . we honor Edward and Count John Creighton . . . pioneers in the development of the West . . . through trade, communications, and ranching . . . converted their self-made financial success into foundations for mid-west education . . . the very institution under their name . . . which stands today as a haven of learning . . . where East meets West on a worldwide scale . . . a reality for surpassing the dreams and plans . . . of Creighton's two first citizens . . . to them . . . this book . . . a tribute . . .

Edward C. Creighton (1820-1874)

HONORED for his prudence, prescience, and enterprise . . . beloved for his sympathy, geniality, and generosity . . . Edward Creighton helped Omaha grow from trading post to industrial city . . . constructed the first telegraph from the Missouri to the Pacific . . . thus laying the route for future railroads . . . organized the first ranching projects, potential mainstay of the cattle country . . . at his request, his wife Mary Lucretia founded Creighton college with an endowment in her will . . . a vigorous, energetic man whose life was replete with contributions to Creighton, Omaha, and the United States . . .

A FURTHER extension of Edward's virtues . . . John followed the industrial paths marked by his elder brother . . . forced to leave college because of his mother's death . . . he joined Edward on telegraph construction . . . engineered wagon trains for westward travel . . . promoted both mercantile and grocery business . . . in executing his brother's will, selected the site for Creighton college . . . utilized his own profits in building Creighton medical school, Dowling hall, St. John's church, St. Joseph's hospital, Poor Clares' convent . . . Notre Dame University in 1900 recognized his philanthropy by awarding him the Laetare medal . . . from Pope Leo XIII came the greatest distinction . . . the title of "Count of the Holy Roman Empire" . . . acknowledging his benefaction toward religious education . . . in the products of his diligent application, commercial aptitude, and noble purpose Count John lives today . . .

Count John A. Creighton (1831-1907)

Francis P. Matthews

. . . in memoriam to Francis P. Matthews . . .
regent of Creighton University and one of its most distinguished graduates . . . Secretary of the Navy . . . United States Ambassador to Ireland . . . recipient of the Medal of Merit from the Honorable Harry S. Truman, the highest award that can be bestowed on a United States citizen . . . director of the United States Chamber of Commerce . . . Knight of the Order of St.
Gregory the Great . . . Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus . . . civic, religious, business leader . . .

THESE OUR TIMES . . . not one year in isolation . . .
enclosed by firmly determined dates . . . calendared
by physical phenomena . . . but a contiguous series of cause and effect, action and reaction . . . inter-

the Creighton of today is a fulfillment of seventy-five years . . . and even more . . . of yesterday . . . and our present alike the seeds of the future . . . these

alumni activities

. . . supervised by the Rev. Henry W. Linn, S.J. . . . one of the invaluable men on the hilltop . . . official title is executive assistant to the president . . . practical title is "ball of fire" . . . heads Creighton's public relations staff . . . moderator of all alumni activities . . . has travelled from border to border, ocean to ocean, to make known the story and needs of Creighton . . . is living proof that miracles do happen . . . survived an accident which resulted in 23 broken ribs and one broken vertebra . . . primary interest is the spread of Creighton's voice throughout the Omaha vicinity . . . organizes publicity programs broadcasting the benefits of the university's presence in this metropolis . . . directs the developmental program and fund-raising procedures . . . has formulated long-range objectives of endowment, building, and operating funds . . . in his travels he promotes the membership and general activities of the alumni association . . . has accepted a tremendous task and is turning his many efforts into innumerable successes . . .

THESE OUR AUTUMNS . . . the trail-blazing days of 1878 . . . when 120 boys registered as Creighton's first students . . . 1879, when 3,000 volumes transformed shelves into the embryo of a library . . . so on each year as the leaves turning color hinted the passing of time . . . additions and enlargements signified progress . . . for the first four presidents autumn was a beginning . . . not only of a scholastic year but more . . . in the times of their service was drawn the master blueprint of . . . A TRADITION FOR TOMORROW . . .

... the 1952-53 season opened with a trio of brand new prospects ... a new coach ... a new system ... and an improved squad ... caused much speculation as to the prospects of the team ... but fans testify it was a change for the better ... some games saw outstanding performances of the team on the court ... Jays lost their usual share of games by one point ... the outstanding performer and most proficient point-maker in Creighton's history returns next year ... Elton "Stretch" Tuttle ... broke old scoring mark of 408 points ... one of the leaders in rebounding in the country ... was one of the top twenty in scoring ... broke scoring record at Loyola with 38 point total ... co-captain with Ray Yost ... second in scoring ... likes to score with a push or hook shot ... adept on rebounds ... rugged under the boards ... scored 32 points in one game ... Bob Kom-asinski played opposite ... most improved player ... height important under the net ... favors driving jump shot ... guard Bob Meyer exceptional ball handler ... fastest man on the floor ... hits with two handed set shot ... important in breaking press ... Ed Cole, guard, full of hustle and of the scrappy variety ... one of the top scorers ... won important game in last second ... Bill Heyden rejoined team second semester ... leading scorer last year ... agile for a big man ... uses his 240 pounds to advantage under the boards ... guard Ed Mullin ... easily fits into the picture ... valuable when the chips are down ... good on defense ... cool under pressure ... Coach Subby Salerno had a good season ... looking to next season as one of the greatest fives ... only one veteran leaving ... new era should be a great one ...

We believe in God.

We believe in the personal dignity of man.

We believe that man has certain rights which come from God and not from the State.

We therefore are opposed to all forms of dictatorship holding that the "total man" (totalitarianism) belongs to the State.

We believe in the sanctity of the home—the basic unit of society.

We believe in the natural right of private property, but likewise that private property has its social obligations.

We believe that Labor has not only its rights but also obligations.

We believe that Capital has not only its rights but also obligations.

We are vigorously opposed to all forms of "racism"—persecution or intolerance because of race.

We believe that liberty is a sacred thing, but that law, which regulates liberty, is a sacred obligation.

We believe in inculcating all the essential liberties of American Democracy and take open and frank issue with all brands of spurious "democracy".

We believe, briefly, in the teachings of Christ, who held that morality must regulate the personal, family, economic, political and international life of men if civilization is to endure.
